How To Live Healthier NOW!

We all know that by achieving optimal health we will feel better, not get sick as often, slow the aging process, and significantly lower our chances of heart disease and most forms of cancer. So why are so many Americans, especially gay Americans, still overweight or underweight and not doing a thing about it?

Is it because we don't care? Or because life has been bad to us and we don't care if anyone is ever attracted to us again...

Maybe you think having a nice body is just not possible because you were born to be heavy? Or, you think only the sexually promiscuous boys need to have a nice body...

Remember that being healthy really has nothing to do with having a nice body. Many people with lean bodies are very unhealthy. They are lean because their body is not getting proper nutrition, proper sleep, or both, and therefore they have little fat. The result of improper nutrition is poor sleep patterns, low motivation to achieve your goals, constant mood changes, and frequent illnesses.

Going to the gym regularly is not an indication of the level of your health. Many people spend thousands of hours over their lifetime doing some type of exercises at gyms but what they do OUTSIDE the gym overrides all their efforts. An example of this type of person is one who exercises regularly but eats poorly with a high fat diet, or irregular eating patterns that constantly put stress on your body.

Skipping breakfast every morning and making your body go until lunchtime for adequate nutrition is the perfect example. This type of person will always have a slow metabolism and less efficient fat-burning system. Eating your largest meal of the day at night on a regular basis will also slow your metabolism; keeping your body fat levels above what they should be. This puts stress on your heart and your digestive system.

Stress plays a major role on your health too. Lets say you exercise regularly and you eat three or more regular, low fat, balanced, nutritious meals a day. You even do regular cardiovascular training keeping your body in fine tune 50 weeks a year. Does that mean you are in optimal health? Hopefully yes, but if stress is a major factor in your daily schedule, you are a time bomb waiting for the first explosion, no matter how hard you practice good health.

Stress is the number one killer. It affects every system in your body. It can give you high blood pressure, diabetes, and heart disease, increase your odds of getting cancer, destroy your digestive system, and keep you from getting quality sleep.

So how do you live healthier? By maintaining a proper balance in all aspects of your life.

Exercise consistently and effectively, eat regularly and consistently balanced meals, keep your stress levels low, and enjoy life as much as possible. That is a healthy life.

NIGHT WITH THE BRAVES...

The Atlanta Braves and Atlanta Games, Inc., (AGI), are uniting to welcome the Federation of Gay Games to the city and to celebrate the community's bid for the 2006 Gay Games. The celebration is scheduled during Atlanta's match-up with the Houston Astros on Wednesday, Aug. 8.

Officially called Atlanta Games Inc. Night with the Braves, the sports team has set aside a minimum of 500 tickets for the game. Tickets will be sold exclusively by AGI to the GLBT community, according to AGI co-chairman Margie Archer. We are hoping to get the community to come out in full force and support our efforts. We want to show the Federation just how strong we are.

ATLANTA GAMES 2006

Seats will be kept within a specific blocked area and all those attending will be given red towels, provided by Coca-Cola. This is an opportunity to show the spirit of our community, Archer said.

Tickets for the game are $10 and can be purchased at OutWrite Bookstore & Coffeehouse, Brushstrokes and Charis Books & More. Tickets are also available by calling 404-577-GAME or visiting www.atlantagames2006.org.

The event caps a three-day visit by the Federation of Gay Games Site Selection Committee Aug. 6-8. While here the two-member committee will visit sports and cultural venues, review transportation options, attend community events and grade the city on a variety of line items relative to the production of the Games.

Following the site selection visit, AGI's team will travel to Johannesburg, South Africa to make its final presentation. The winning bid city will be announced on Oct. 25.

DON'T HAVE ANY FRIENDS?

HRC would like you to make some good wholesome friends -- and who knows, you may even meet that special someone! Their monthly social event "Meeting People, Making Friends" will be held July 26th at Miss Q's on Amsterdam Ave.

The event is free (except for your drinks of course) and is open to current or future HRC supporters and friends.

For more information send a note to: HRC4U@HRC-Atlanta.org.

ARE YOU A VOYEUR?

DIFFA continues its tradition of excellence by offering a private peek into four of the most exquisite homes Atlanta has to offer.

Unique to DIFFA these homes will not be restricted to one neighborhood, but will include Buckhead, Ansley Park, and Midtown. The TOUR will begin with brunch, and end with a wine tasting, compliment's of 103 West.

For more information about DIFFA go to www.diffa.org. Or call 404-228-1950 for info on tickets.

BARK IN THE PARK

For the third year, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra will host its popular Bark in the Park concert at Piedmont Park's Oak Hill on Sunday, August 12. Besides animal-themed musical selections, pet lovers and families are invited to bring their pets to the concert to watch and participate in pre-concert dog activities including dog and disc demonstrations by the Greater Atlanta Dog and Disc Club and WoofSports USA and a costume contest for pets.

DEWEY... ON COLORS

Outwrite Bookstore & Coffeehouse will host a reading and signing of DEWEY COLOR SYSTEM by Dewey Sadka on Wednesday, August 1, 2001, at 7:30 PM.

A revolutionary self-help book, the Dewey Color System asks questions without words and offers a personality profile system that creates self-awareness through color preference. By focusing on preferences for a precise shade of a color, the system indicates who people are, how they relate to others, make decisions, solve problems, and approach the world.

The Dewey Color System is based on the concept that color can be used to reveal the core of an individual's personality and shows how each person prioritizes their life, examining the rewards and consequences. A preferred color, for example, visually inspires them to feel their hopes and aspirations, while a non-preferred color can irritatingly remind them of what is missing in their life.

Each category of colors relates to categories of experience: primary colors refer to basic motivators; secondary colors to how one relates to others; and intermediate colors to how one initiates.

The Author is the former owner of an employee staffing company that he founded in 1976. Dewey formed his company into a $36 million firm within 18 years. He is a renowned professional speaker and the author of a column plus numerous articles on personal empowerment.

DJ Trane (S.F.) Coming to Ground Zero

This weekend check out this sexy, self taught dj that samples, layers and weaves unlike you have ever heard!

The nerves of listening to him spin become unbearable as he attempts to bring together a synchronicity of beat, rhythm, keys and vocals from two tracks, fuse as one without the average ear discerning the place of introduction. Then to do this repeatedly through his selections as well as throughout his entire set.

DJ Trane has played at venues such as the Pavilion on Fire Island, Sound Factory, Limelight, and many others. He has worked with some of the industries greatest including Gus Bean of Gus Presents, Don Spradlin of Reunion and Jeto from the highly respected Aftershock events just to name a few.

Make sure you get out to see Trane's first Atlanta Appearance this Saturday night at Ground Zero. See page 9 for more information.

David Atlanta Interviews...

John Cameron Mitchell

A friend once told me, "the measure of a good movie is all relative to the number of times you check your watch." There have been certain times where I've found myself counting along with the seconds on my Casio G-Shock and then there are times when I've been so in awe of what I was watching that I'd even ignore the need to get to the bathroom. The latter of the two happened recently during a screening of HEDWIG and the ANGRY INCH. The buzz for this movie has spread like the proverbial wildfire across the country as Director/Star-JOHN CAMERON MITCHELL took home the AUDIENCE AWARD for BEST DIRECTOR at the SUNDANCE FILM FESTIVAL. John Cameron recently touched down in the ATL to help kick off the ATLANTA FILM & VIDEO FESTIVAL with a live performance as HEDWIG at CLUB eleven50 directly after the premiere of his movie at the HIGH MUSEUM. DAVID ATLANTA MAGAZINE was invited to stop by and chat with John Cameron just hours before he would take the stage and bring it to Atlanta absolutely live.

John Cameron Mitchell

I sat in the lobby of the FOUR SEASONS and envisioned a half-dressed drag queen frantically brushing the hair of a blonde wig and screaming at a hundred assistants to the whereabouts of her mascara. I soon met with the other writers scheduled to take part in meeting with John Cameron and we were off to meet the wonderful wizard of Hedwig. I continued to indulge in my fantasy of a screaming queen throwing tantrums and in true diva form demanding more bottles of champagne and cuter room service boys. We finally arrived at John Cameron's room and like a true gentleman I opted for the ladies to sit closer as well as asking the first round of questions. I looked around the room and was somewhat disappointed by the lack of travelling make-up Caboodle kits, cans of ozone depleting hair spray, glorious wigs, empty champagne bottles, and cute room service boys. My fantasy completely hit rock bottom as John Cameron stepped into the room and quietly sat down.

John Cameron had a soft spoken, casual demeanor, which completely contrasted his onscreen Hedwig altar ego. We had eighteen minutes to play 20 questions with John Cameron and like a trooper he fielded them all with detailed responses. He delicately and graphically explained several of the symbols depicted in the film and then clarified what set Hedwig and the Angry Inch apart from Dancer in the Dark and Moulin Rouge. He went on to say, "At that time we weren't thinking about musicals as such on film, it was just we were doing what we were doing and by accident a lot of people were doing musicals again."

Our eighteen minutes with John Cameron began dwindling and soon it came time to ask a single question. I had secretly yearned to ask him the most random things-his preference of make-up? Did he like Britney or Christina? Did he have any secret Hollywood crushes? Was he really gunning for a Gwen Stefani kind of look for Hedwig? These were things I haven't seen on any website or read in some press packet, questions I really wanted to know. But, alas, there was something I wanted to know even more.

Are you the least bit intimidated by being the next gay icon?

Is that a threat?

Nope, not at all. Typically speaking, like when 'To Wong Foo', or 'Chuck and Buck', or 'Adventures of Priscilla, Queen of the Desert' were released, there was a lot of media attention...

David Atlanta Interviews...

Like negative?

No, not at all, very positive actually.

No, not at all. I mean I've always been very open about being gay as an actor for years, so it wasn't a big deal. Well, I guess it was a big deal cause a lot of my friends were kinda closeted. Acting seems to be the last artistic environment where you actually got a lot of closeted people because actors are just scared people generally. They want to be what you want them to be-that's their whole life. So, the less you know about them the better because then, the easier it is for you to project something on them. So, you have people running scared, running, running, not telling their age, not telling their sexuality, changing their face cause they wanna be accepted as anything. You know they wanna change so you get people saying 'I don't want to talk about it'. You get Kevin Spacey-'it's my business'. You get Jodi Foster-'I have my ranch and my horses.' That's the ultimate thing-you start getting this feeling like it's bad. And it's like 'this is fucked up'. But, to answer your question, it's not intimidating if it's all in a positive sense. With Hedwig I wanted to be as broad as our audiences have always been. Always really mixed-rockers, gay, straight, young, old.

Thank you very much, that's what we like to hear. Cheers.

I headed back down to my car and checked my watch. Sure enough, we had depleted exactly thirty minutes with John Cameron Mitchell. Although we all knew we had thirty minutes with him, not a single one of us checked the time-even when they told us our time was coming to a close. I recalled what my friend had told me about how a good movie is relative to the number of times you check your watch. It's interesting to see how that theory holds true with people as well.

Arman D. Reyes is still in a perpetual state of confusion over the chicken and the egg and can be reached at ARMANREYESATL@HOTMAIL.COM

Weekly Horoscopes

Aries (March 21-April 19)
You will find a good buy if you go out looking for things that will enhance your image. Please yourself first, if you want to be happy.

Taurus (April 20-May 20)
Underhandedness is likely, be careful if you are socializing with colleagues. Don't let your family get to you.

Gemini (May 21-June 20)
Socialize with friends and avoid discussions that will only result in major upsets. Take your time to think things through before making decisions.

Cancer (June 21-July 22)
Your stubborn nature may cause you plenty of grief if you refuse to see your loved one's point of view. Stop talking and start listening for a change...

Leo (July 23-August 22)
It's time to broaden your horizons. Offer others solutions but keep your personal problems to yourself.

Virgo (August 23-September 22)
You need a change of pace. Look into activities that will take you in new directions. Financial errors are likely. Check your work!!

Libra (September 23-October 22)
Relatives will try to interfere in your personal life. You'll be more help to them than they can possibly be to you.

Scorpio (October 23-November 21)
Reevaluate your position. Let go of past disagreements and you'll be surprised how much you can accomplish.

Sagittarius (November 22-December 21)
Your emotional well-being depends on your ability to see all of the possibilities. Be positive and go after your goals.

Capricorn (December 22-January 19)
By week's end, invite friends over for some fun in the sun. Your cooking talents will be appreciated. Do what's necessary and move on.

Aquarius (January 20-February 18)
You'll feel overly generous, do not give too much to those who really don't deserve it. Consider spending some time and money on yourself for a change.

Pisces (February 19-March 20)
Your critical nature will turn people off, and you may find yourself all alone. Think carefully before you speak negatively.
